The Sound Machine overtures

the sound MACHINE

marches to the beat of a different drummer

Dave Schaafsma (above) leads the band through warm-up drills. Jody Knight, 14, (right) warms up on her clarinet. On the cover: Peter Rathmann, 13, sings out a sweet melody on his French horn.

The Sound Machine of the Inland Empire isn't an enormous contraption used to generate loud noises throughout the West Valley nor is it a control system to vary levels of decibels or acoustics.

The Sound Machine is a group of young musicians.

This new band is a musical venture of Dave Schaafsma and Ron Barbee, and is making its home in Upland. The group is attracting local musicians as well as performers from as far as Riverside.

The band is getting organized this spring and new members sign up weekly while other musicians, age 12 to 21, stop by during rehearsals to check out the group.

"Youth bands formed in the late 40's, early 50's when high school bands didn't do much, didn't travel or have that special feeling," Schaafsma said. That "special feeling" is a close family-like relationship and camaraderie bandsmen share.

The youth band, which combines talented students from many different schools, went through a stagnation period when the number of competitions dropped off and lost popularity. Although a few are still in existence, the distances between the performing organizations makes it difficult for musicians in the Upland and Rancho Cucamonga areas to participate.

"Many of the old youth bands were branches of clubs, like the Los Angeles Police Department Junior Band and the Elks Whittier Cavaliers," Schaafsma said. Youth bands are open to any student from any school.

"The music is a lot harder and the marching is more demanding ... there is a parade circuit as well as field shows and standstill shows (competitions)," he said.

A standstill show uses field show music in a staged presentation, any formation can be used and soloists can be brought forward, routines can be done with a color guard, but the band does not move for movement's sake.

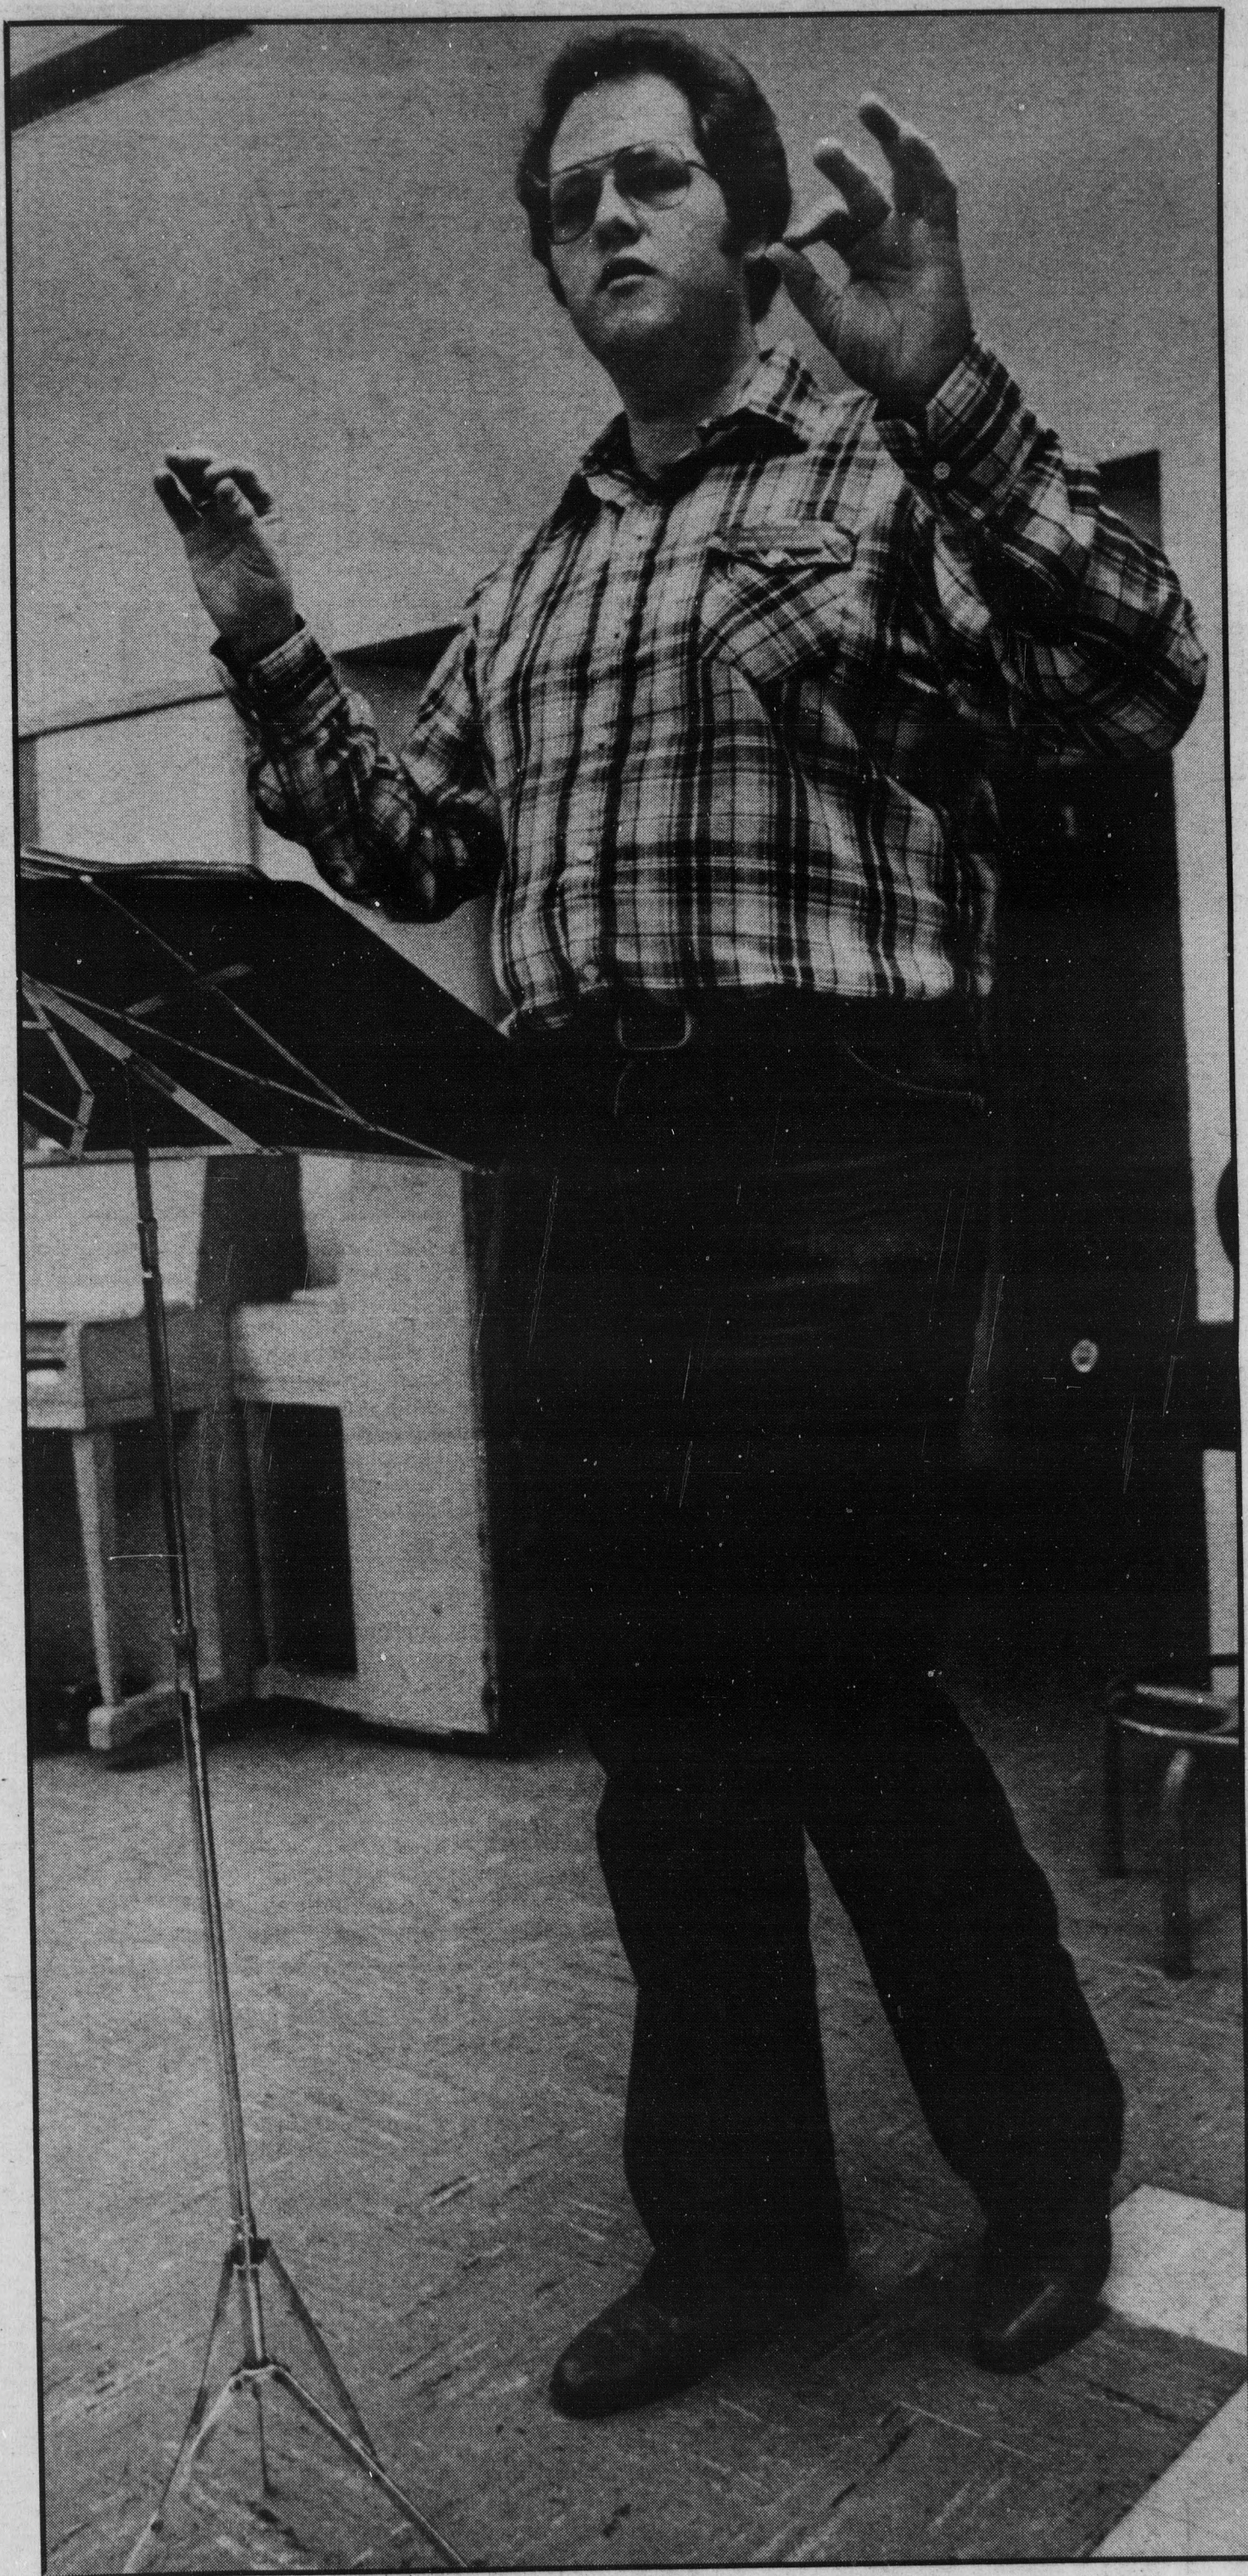

"Youth bands are a lot more detailed, in line of the perfection of what a drum and bugle corps would do, but we won't reach that perfection. Drum and bugle corps practice 10 hours a week before touring and then come back, change the routine and practice some more," Schaafsma said.

The youth band is not in direct competition with the high school band; it is an extra-curricular extension of a school's music program, according to Schaafsma.

"We don't want to interfere (with high school music programs) in any way. If a (competition) conflict arises, the student better be with the high school band; that's where he is getting a grade and learning. Primarily we want to offer (an another chance for a student) to become more involved in music," Schaafsma said.

The unit will begin studying musically before attempting marching. It will be accompanied by a color guard and dance corps. The founding members' names will be engraved on a commemorative plaque, he said.

"We give a lot more one-on-one attention than what you might find in a high school," Barbee said.

The Sound Machine will have two color guard instructors, as many as four percussion teachers, along with Director Schaafsma and Associate Director Barbee, who will instruct the horn sections. Staff coordinator is Dave Weinberg.

Schaafsma has 12 years of experience in youth band work; Barbee has 10 years. "It's (youth band) different than high school because parents don't say 'you have to be in band.' Students are here because they want to be here. It's important to them," Barbee said.

He said the youth band experience teaches students to set goals as well as methods of reaching those goals.

"It teaches them responsibility and time management. They have to complete their homework and manage their time better to fit it (youth band) in," Schaafsma said.

"Youth band gives kids an opportunity to meet other kids from different schools ... when I was in high school, the football rivalry wasn't as tense, it was a lot of fun. (Youth band members) looked forward to half-time because they would show off for each other," Schaafsma said.

Learning leadership skills is another aspect of the youth band experience. The section leaders, usually older members, are given responsibilities and serve as role models for the junior high musicians.

"We teach the older members how to teach the younger ones, how to do sectional work, and keep discipline. They give input to help design shows and let us know music they want to play and shows they want to do," he said.

Youth band socials also provide an opportunity for the members to get to know one another as well as have fun, according to Schaafsma said.

The Sound Machine directors will concentrate on developing the musical talents of the group before they put the unit into marching formation.

Upland High School sophomore Mary Limon said she decided to visit the Sound Band rehearsals after seeing a flyer in the bandroom. "I enjoy doing things like playing in the band. I've been playing in (Upland High School) band for two years." Limon plays clarinet.

Bill Adams, a junior at Alta Loma High School, plays baritone saxophone. "I love to march. I heard they were starting up (a youth band) ... I figured with the musicians (we have locally) we could put together a good enough band to give the Santa Ana Winds a run for their money. It could be an honor band that would go off to march and that fascinates me."

The Winds are a unit to be reckoned with at youth band competitions and are well-known throughout Southern California, according to both directors. Adams said he would have been interested in joining the Winds but it's too far to travel.

Cheri Polley joined up with the Sound Machine because it gave her an opportunity to play piccolo. "I'm drum major in the Montclair Band and I love being in band; it's better than going out partying."

Upland resident Barbara Hunt said she thinks the youth band is a good idea, especially for this district since junior high students don't get the opportunity to march.

She said her daughter likes music and being in the youth band will give her an opportunity to get into competitions.

Band members must pay $12 a month to cover the rent of the rehearsal room at Upland High School, the cost of the instructors and music along with other minor operating expenses, according to Schaafsma. The dues are expected to eventually drop to $7 to help curb costs.

Also required is a $3.75 insurance fee each year to cover members for accident and illness while they are at band functions.

Backers of The Sound Machine are seeking non-profit status for the organization. For more information on the Sound Machine of the Inland Empire call (714) 982-2458 or (714) 634-1150 or write The Sound Machine, 222 W. 19th St, Upland, 91786. □

Uplander thinks warm thoughts

KEFLAVIK, Iceland — Daniel C. Laizure enlisted in the Navy to travel and is now living and working on an island in the North Atlantic, a few miles south of the Arctic Circle.

The 22-year-old son of Charles Laizure, 2070 Tulare Way, Upland, and Annette Laizure, Garden Grove, is serving on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Base in Keflavik, Iceland.

"I requested these orders," the 1979 graduate of Upland High School said. "I wanted to be around people with different ideas and the chances to see their culture."

"Iceland is a beautiful, rugged country. There's no pollution; the air is the cleanest and freshest I've ever experienced."

The 1,100-year-old nation is about the size of Ohio. Most of the 223,000 Icelanders live along the rugged coast that provides shelter for their fishing fleets and farmland for their sheep, cattle and horses.

Called the "Land of Ice and Fire," the country's interior consists of rough highlands, lakes, the largest glaciers in Europe and volcanic mountains.

"I've gone sightseeing and am impressed with the island's open countryside," Seaman Laizure said. "It's very green with flowers all over. But I miss seeing trees, especially near the base because it's all rock."

The NATO base, home for 2,000 U.S. military men and women, accompanied by 3,000 family members, occupies a flat, rocky lava plateau on the southwest coast of the country.

Its mission is to defend Iceland and the strategic ocean surrounding the country. NATO forces detect, track and identify aircraft, ships and submarines in the area.

Soviet naval forces entering or leaving the North Atlantic must pass around Iceland — there is no other path for them.

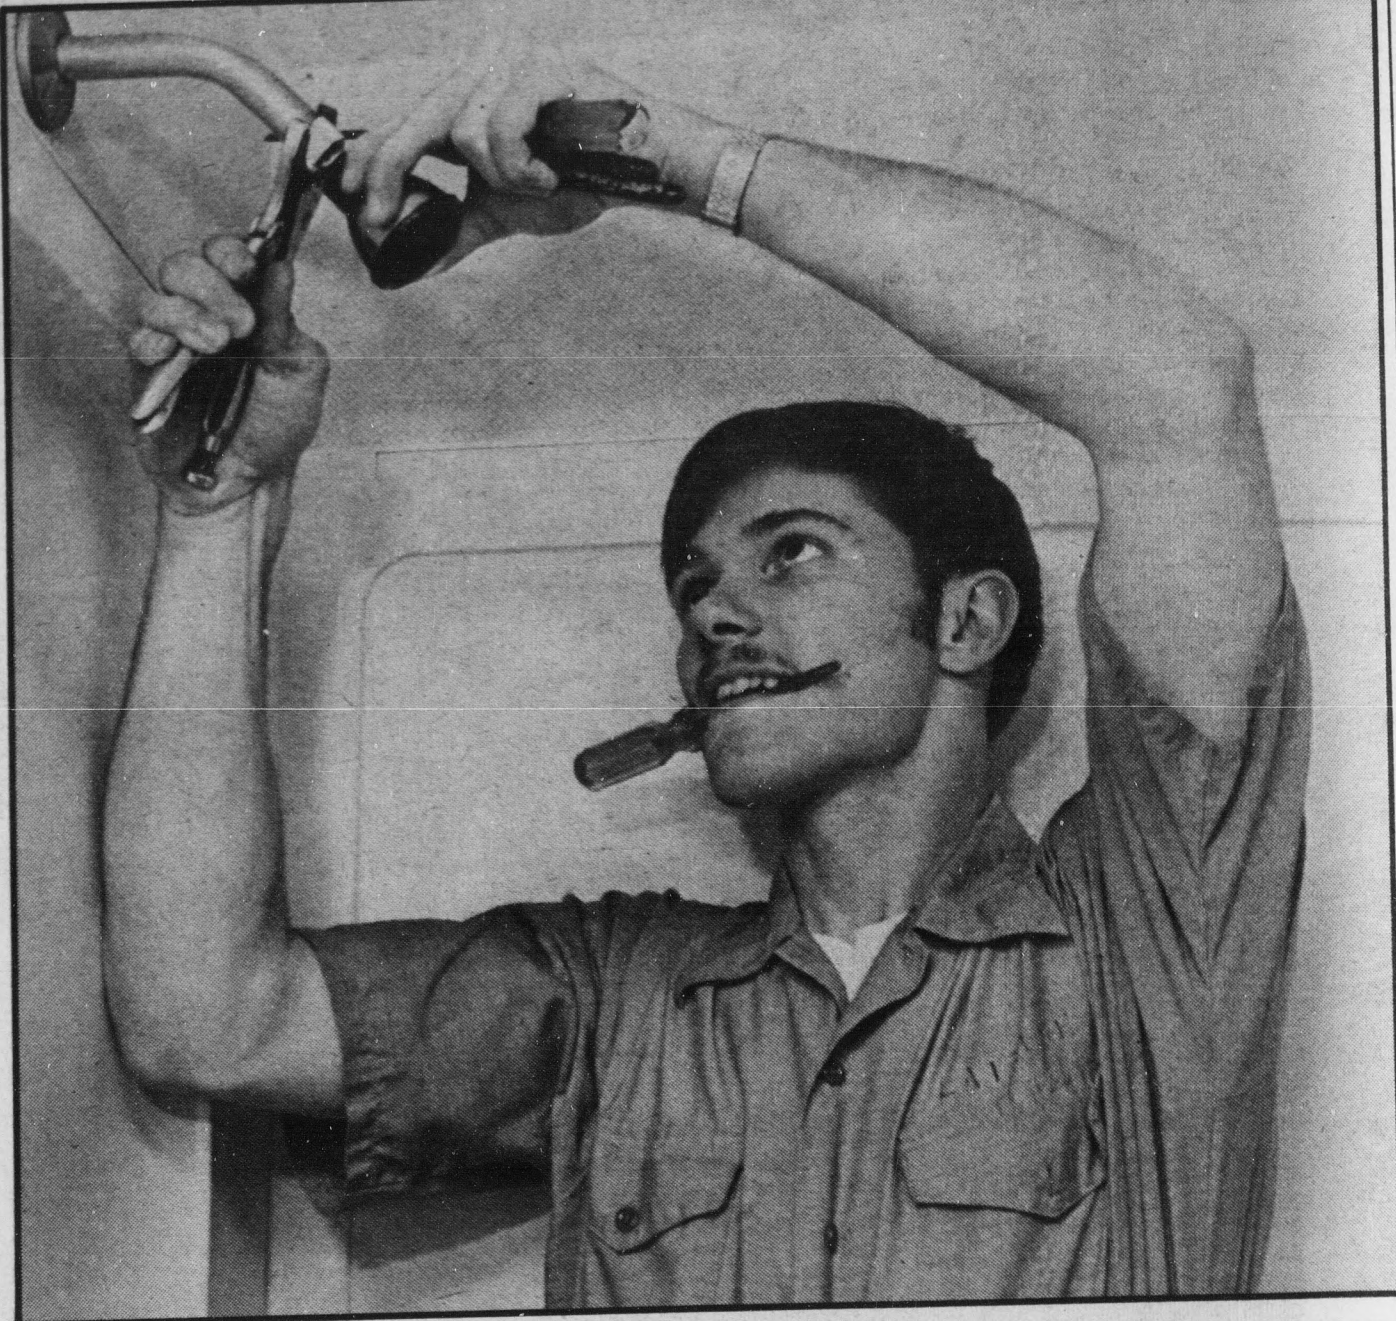

Although Laizure is satisfied with his assignment, he misses California weather. "Winters in Upland are like summers here," he said. "It rains almost every day. I miss sunny days at the beach."

Iceland's northern tip almost touches the Arctic Circle, but its temperatures are moderated by the Gulf Stream. The average temperature in January, the coldest month, is higher than in New York City. Summer temperatures are generally in the 50s.

The dominant factor in Iceland's weather is wind. Winds of 35 mph are common and occasionally exceed 80 mph. As a result, cold wind-chill factors are common.

"It's a little depressing not being able to enjoy outdoor activities even in the summer," Laizure said.

Iceland has only two seasons, winter and summer. The biggest contrast in summer is the "midnight sun." In May, June and July, it never gets dark. In December, it's light about five hours.

"When I got here last March, it was light about 16 hours a day, and we gained three or four minutes of light a day. It was hard to get used to at first."

The Californian said one of the advantages of being in Iceland is seeing Europe.

"I help take care of eight barracks and I'm the senior man on the work force. We make sure the rooms are ready for occupancy and people have what they need. We also do some maintenance in the barracks. I get satisfaction from knowing arriving people have a nice place to live."

Seaman Laizure

"I spent two weeks in Paris last summer and saw some beautiful things," he said. "I visited Louis XIV's palace in Versailles, the Louvre art museum, the Eiffel Tower and the French countryside for a couple of days. I had a fabulous time."

department and works in billeting.

"I help take care of eight barracks," he said. "I'm the senior man on the work force. We make sure the rooms are ready for occupancy and people have what they need. We also do some maintenance in the barracks. I get satisfaction from knowing arriving people have a nice place to live.

"Joining the Navy was a good decision for me. On a civilian job, I'd still be in California. The Navy's given me a chance to travel and meet new people. It's help me mature faster because I've been on my own and away from home." □

Balloons soar to far away pen pals

Students at Upland's Sycamore Elementary School launched 500 helium-filled balloons last week as part of the nationwide "Writing Pals" balloon contest.

Countdown to the "Great Balloon Race" began at 10 a.m. on last Wednesday, according to school principal William R. Smith.

"A message attached to each balloon explains the project and asks that the finder return it to Sycamore," Smith said.

Weekly Reader, the nationwide classroom newspaper sponsoring the contest, will present a $500 prize to the school that gets back the message that has traveled farthest. In addition, 100 runner-up prizes will be awarded.

Protests stall Upland gas station proposal

By Tony Saavedra

Apartment owners behind a proposed carwash/gas station on Foothill Boulevard in Upland are asking the city planning commission to deny the project.

A request for a conditional use permit to build the "Classic Car Wash" on Foothill, west of Wilson Avenue, was postponed Thursday for the second time in as many commission meetings. The item was continued to allow the developer Shelly Group, Inc. of San Juan Capistrano to complete a study on the noise that would be generated by the project.

Furthermore, the company has not collected the signatures of 60 percent of the persons owning residential property within 500 feet of the proposed gasoline station. The signatures are required by the

SCHOOLS

Spelling Bee

Using a revamped format, the Alta Loma Junior High School spelling bee once again went down to the wire.

Each English class on campus named a five-person team (including an alternate) to compete.

Students were asked to spell a word, which was projected so that judges and the audience could see the proper spelling. The teams spelling the most words correctly moved into a final round.

The final round matched two teams from teacher Kathryn Gibson's classes, her first and third period classes.

The first period class came out on top.

Members of the winning team were Jennifer Jurosky, Paula Schricker, Jefferey Williams, Eric Sealf and Thomas Looney. Members of the runner-up team were Kathryn Olander, Michael Schmitt, Susan Bedford, Troy

Dahm and Steven Milton.

Words in the final round were "inferior," "deliberate," "compromise," "eligible," "financial," "binoculars," "derogatory," "gravitational," "projectile," "malign," "bureaucracy" and "collegiate."

Each team was tied at the end of the first 12 words — each spelled nine words correctly.

Moving to a sudden victory, the winning team spelled the word "pneumonia."

This year's spelling bee, which involved 200 students, was coordinated by teachers Janice Creasey and Louise O'Neill.

Art festival

Alta Loma Elementary School students submitted 59 entries for judging in the district-wide art festival. Two entries were selected for display at the San Bernardino County Museum.

The students who created those entries were Robert Trostle, sixth grade, and Germain

Jordan, first grade.

Works by Danny Thrall and Paige Parker were chosen to be exhibited at the Alta Loma School District Office and three youngsters (Jason Haubridge, Bill Persi and Curley Guidry) have their artwork on display at a McDonald's Restaurant at the intersection of Foothill Boulevard and Archibald Avenue in Rancho Cucamonga.

In addition, 33 of the submitted entries are posted for viewing in the school office at 7085 Amethyst Ave., Alta Loma. Teachers Joan Mooney and Nora Fusco served as coordinators of the school's art fair.

Doors to the Delacour Auditorium open at 1:30 p.m. and children under 15 must be accompanied by an adult.

The Natural History Museum is located in Exposition Park, south of the Santa Monica Freeway and west of the Harbor Freeway at 900 Exposition Blvd.

Maryland honored by postal card

By Lea Blauvelt
Copley News Service

A 13-cent postal card commemorating the 350th anniversary of the founding of Maryland was issued by the U.S. Postal Service, March 25, following a special session of the Maryland Legislature in St. Mary's City.

Although the Colonists established the first settlement in St. Mary's City, the first-day cancellation reads "St. Clement's Island, MD 20686," reflecting the actual landing site.

The design features a view of the Dove, a "pinnacle," or pine ship, and the Ark, the large merchant vessel which carried Leonard Calvert and his family and friends to the New World. More than four months passed before the sturdy square-rigged ships sailed into the Cheapeake Bay. The smaller Dove was nearly rammed by a French cutter shortly after leaving England. It was forced to turn back once and, was counted for a time, as lost. Despite cramped quarters and scarce provisions, the colonists persevered. A 40-foot stone monument stands on St. Clement's Island where the colonists erected a wooden cross in celebration of their safe arrival.

Shortly after landing, Calvert — the 24-year-old leader of the expedition — bartered with the resident Yaocomico Indians for land near the mouth of the Potomac River. The settlement, then called St. Maries City, provided an excellent harbor and for 60 years served as the capital of the Maryland colony.

On her return to England, the Dove was lost while carrying a full cargo of timber and pelts.

The design of the card was created by David Blossom. It was printed by offset process at the Government Printing Office in the process colors yellow, cyan, red and black.

Procedures for ordering first-day cancellations follow:

Customers purchasing the cards at local post offices may send the addressed cards to: Customer-provided Stationery, Postmaster, St. Mary's City, MD 20686-9991. No remittance required.

Customers ordering the cards from the USPS, should mail requests to: Founding of Maryland Postal Card, Postmaster, St. Mary's City, MD 20686-9992. Enclose 13 cents per card ordered and self-addressed peelable labels to expedite the return of orders. Send no cash; personal checks are acceptable.

Postmark all orders not later than April 24. SWITZERLAND — On Feb. 21, Switzerland released three 1984 Publicity stamps, two additions to the definitive Zodiac Signs and Landscapes series, plus a new postal card.

The Publicity trio announces the NABA-ZURI 84 National Philatelic Exhibition to be staged in Oerlikon, June 22-July 1 on a 25-centimes value picturing a rare 1839 stampless cover; the 1,110th anniversary of St. Imier in the Jura mountains, a settlement named in honor of the saint who established an oratory there in 884 A.D., on a 50-centimes value, featuring the face of the clock in St. Martin's Tower with the city church in the background; and an 80-centimes value saluting the selection of Lausanne as the permanent headquarters of the International Olympic Committee (IOC), organized by Baron Pierre de Coubertin in 1894, and depicting a panoramic view of the Upper City, dominated by the 13th century Cathedral of Notre Dame and the Old Fort.

The two Zodiac stamps are devoted to Sagittarius, a 4-franc denomination, and Capricorn, a 4.50-franc stamp. The first pictures an autumnal scene in the Canton of Glarus, while the other shows a winter scene in Scuol. Each bears the appropriate zodiac sign.

The new 50-centime postal card shows a vase of flowers and a variety of berries.

PRECANCEL CATALOG — The Precancel Stamp Society publishes a Bureau Precancel Catalog, now in its second edition. (Available from George Kelin, 1905 McKinley Ave., Vincennes, IN 47591 for $3, postpaid.)

The catalog is both that and a checklist, providing check-points for all precanceled stamps printed at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing since the first experimental of 1916.

Each printing style and the stamps used by the bureau for the printing of precancels are illustrated in the front of the booklet and numbers are assigned to each. One adjusts very quickly to the arrangement and when a stamp is listed by style and Scott Catalogue number the collector can readily picture its appearance.

In fact, album pages to match are also available from the same address for $33, postpaid, providing spaces for 9,430 different stamps, all "buro" prints.

Candidates have forum

The Rancho Cucamonga Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a forum for city council candidates Thursday from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. in the Lions Park Community Center forum room, 9161 Baseline Road, Rancho Cucamonga.

Candidates will answer prepared questions. Members of the community are invited to address the candidates also.

The forum is the chamber's only one for this election.

STAYING CLOSE IN MARRIAGE

When you consider the enormity of the task, it is more a wonder that so many marriages succeed than that some dissolve. Keeping a relationship between two people strong and mutually satisfying—despite the routine pressures of day-to-day life and the more dramatic stresses of new babies, illnesses, moves, and job changes—is no small feat. It is important for husbands and wives periodically to review their expectations of each other and the marriage. For some couples this can be done in a structured and regular way, while for others this would feel artificial. It is vital to set the stage for this kind of discussion by protecting time alone, away from children, work and other commitments, when such serious exchanges can take place.

Often partners ignore nagging feelings of resentment, unhappiness and disappointment for fear of rocking the boat. It takes courage, but presenting such feelings to a spouse—not as a reprimand but as one's own concern—can open up communication and revitalize a sense of genuine closeness. Talking to each other may be a crucial route to closeness but it is not the only way; for some couples, it may not be the best way. If talking always seems to lead to "dead ends," keep the relationship satisfying and alive by doing things together and sharing fun and new experiences.

Old stone church kicks off 100th birthday with Centennial Carnival

Cucamonga United Methodist Church, the old stone church on the corner of Archibald and Church avenues, will kick off its 100th birthday with a Centennial Carnival on the church grounds, Friday through Sunday.

The original congregation was organized in 1884 and the first church building, which also served as a school house, stood near the northeast corner of Archibald and Base Line Road. It was blown down during a wind storm and the new church was built at the present location, according to Margaret Schmidt, carnival event chairwoman.

The carnival will include rides, game booths, an arcade, food booths, a country store and a dunk tank. Saturday, from 2 to 4 p.m.

"celebrity dunkers" in the dunk tank will be the Rancho Cucamonga City Council candidates, according to Schmidt.

A drawing will be held on Sunday at 5 p.m. for a video cassette recorder, a portable television with 5-inch screen, a Commodore 64 home computer and a queen-sized, hand-made comforter. Winners need not be present. Tickets will be available on the carnival grounds.

Discount pre-sale tickets for the rides are available in the church office from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on weekdays until the carnival's opening and are for sale at a 33 percent discount.

Upland car wash proposal stalled as protests mount

Upland Municipal Code.

If the owners of 80 rental units on nearby Springfield Street have their way, the developers won't be able to obtain the required signatures.

Apartment owners have turned up a few signatures of their own — these from tenants who believe the car wash would generate too much noise and traffic.

A petition with 84 signatures against the project has been turned over to the commission.

According to a city report, the car wash would operate seven days a week, from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Roughly 160 cars per day would be washed at the facility.

Athletic Booster Club.

Principal Don Culp formally welcomed the many parents who packed the gymnasium bleachers around 7 p.m. After commending the time and energy expended by parents, students and staff in getting the school open, Culp allowed parents to attend their youth's first period class.

The parents came both to get a glimpse of the new campus and to hear 10-minute presentations by their students' teachers. Report cards for the first six weeks of the second semester were passed out to parents during fifth period classes.

Staff members, drawn mostly from other Chaffey Joint Union High School District schools, claimed it was the best-attended back-to-school night they ever experienced.

GLANCING BACK

Wire takes a bite out of Nancy's front teeth

By John H. Nicholson

We wound up, last week, relating our experiences in raising our kids here in Upland. Some of the results were rather comical, as we look back on them. Some could have been tragic, but were not. I recall the time Dan related his trip to school that morning.

On his way, he, and his sidekick, Stuart McLaughlin, had encountered a Pacific Electric freight train, stopped on the tracks and blocking their way. He was elated with the daring and risk that Stuart had exhibited. "He went up the steps on one side of a car, over the top, and down the steps of the other side". Most amazing. So, we asked how he did it. His reply was, "Oh, I did it safely, I just crawled under the coupling between cars." I guess we were lucky that time.

At one time, the McCallums, across the grove, were having their wood-sided home stuccoed. All of the nearby kids gathered there after the workers went home. Using a plank and a sawhorse, they set up a teeter-totter. As we heard it, all of the small kids got on one end, and a couple of bigger ones on the other.

The little ones group weighed more, so, off again, and the big ones picked up a roll of stucco wire, like chicken wire, and loaded it on to their end. The little ones were still too heavy. In the confusion, the holder of the wire roll let go. Our Nancy was first in line on the low end. The roll of wire rolled down the plank, its loose end flapping. It caught, and ripped out several of her lower front teeth.

The teeth hung by shreds. When she raced home, screaming, we dashed her off to the dentist, Dr. Emory Johnson. He put the teeth back where they belonged, and made a plastic gadget to hold them there. They took hold nicely, and she still has them. This, being some kind of a first, Johnson got notoriety in a paper on the event, at a dental convention.

One evening, at the dinner table, Nancy burst out with something that was not entirely becoming of a young lady. I swallowed a couple of times, and then stated, "Nancy! You shouldn't say things like that. You should go wash your mouth out with soap." While I was not serious, she left the table. Hearing odd noises from the bathroom, we checked. She was doing just what I had suggested.

Dan put in time in a Cub Scout Pack, with his mother as den mother. Then he entered the Boy Scouts, as a Tenderfoot Scout. Each boy was to make out a menu for himself, and bring the needed foods, for a weekend outing. He prepared.

Returning home, after the weekend. We asked why. He replied, "I lost my menu, and didn't know what I was supposed to eat". So be it. He learned more later.

Ethel and I were campers from the "old school." When we first tried it ourselves, it was with borrowed cooking gear, and a canvas draped over a rope, between two trees, for a tent. We got the kids into it early, and they liked it. We graduated into a homemade, 4-by-6 tent trailer, with fold-out bunks for the kids, while we slept on an old mattress in the middle. Later, we got a home-built 14-foot travel trailer.

We all loved vacationing that way, and spent summer vacations in the High Sierras, for a number of years. We carried an eight-foot boat, also homemade, and the kids learned to row and sail it. Three of us loved to fish. Nancy was not that interested in catching them, but she would clean all we brought in. That was fine with the rest of us.

Dan entered the Upland Sea Scout program, with our Scout "Ship" Tigershark, with which I assisted. Joe Seitz was the skipper. Nancy became a member of our Girl Scout Mariners Ship. Both groups made a number of cruises from San Pedro on the sailing vessel "Resolute."

Every bit of their boating and seagoing experience was just fine with me, as I wanted them to get in on what I experienced, and what my Dad passed on to me. They both loved it and are still quite involved in boating.

When Dan attended Chaffey College, then at Fifth Street and Euclid Avenue, he drove the Mount Baldy bus, for high school students. As a member of the College Flying Club, he learned to fly with Instructor Elwin "Pinky" Alder, who was then Upland's city manager. One summer, he was half of the two-man crew of an 80-foot vessel, tending the offshore oil rigs in the Gulf of Mexico. In other summers, he drove those huge truck-trailer rigs, hauling oranges for Sunkist in Ontario.

Nancy carried on with the Girl Scout Mariners, and joined the local Bethel of Job's Daughters. As time went by, she reached their top office as honor queen. She and Dan both worked spare time as life guards at the Upland High School pool. Neither one ever had time to get into trouble. □

PTA recipient just likes to help out

By Terri Tirella

At any meeting of a local volunteer group, Donna Vandersall is usually fairly easy to find — she's the one with the gavel. Serving as leader seems part of her character.

The articulate, energetic and active Uplander is involved in everything from serving as president of the Upland School District Board of Trustees to that city's Crime Stoppers and just about everything in between.

Donna Vandersall

But it is school volunteer work that Vandersall may be best known for. And it is from the best known school organization, the PTA, that she is getting what may be her greatest recognition.

Vandersall is the recipient of the PTA's highest honor — the National Life Membership Award. This award is a rarity within the local district, according to its recent winner.

She was surprised with a "This is Your Life" presentation of her award which included guest appearances by Upland's mayor, John McCarthy and an official from San Bernardino County School District.

She was previously awarded the Honorary Service Award from Valencia School and was given a Continuing Service Award by Foothill Council.

She is a member of the Valencia PTA, and Fifth District PTA Membership Committee. Vandersall started in PTA at Upland's Valencia Elementary School.

"Someone called to ask me to do something at school and I said no," she said. "After, I thought that wasn't right and I started working at Valencia School and became more involved," she said.

Vandersall, who has been a resident of Upland for 11 years, has held numerous offices covering the entire spectrum of PTA, including serving on the California State PTA Board of Directors/Board of Managers 1981-83. She is the immediate past president of the Fifth District PTA, serving all of San Bernardino County.

Her volunteerism hasn't been limited to PTA, however.

Vandersall is currently serving on the Upland Traffic Safety Advisory Committee and is vice chairwoman for the San Bernardino County Committee on School District Organization and Inland Empire Cultural Foundation Upland Division. She's also on the Upland Crime Prevention Committee and is a patron of the Assistance League of Upland.

Vandersall hasn't limited herself to purely inside activities, either. She seems to get a kick out of her involvement with the American Youth Soccer Organization, where she's served on the board, been a team mother for six years and tried her hand at coaching.

"Whatever your children get involved in, you get involved in," she said.

Vandersall said she wouldn't be able to accomplish as much as she does without an understanding husband. "I would be gone a week at a time (when serving on the state PTA board) I couldn't have done that without his support and the children's support."

"At the presentation he said he didn't realize it (her volunteering) would require a negative cash flow," she said as a volunteer, she pays her own expenses, including a time when she would put 5,000 miles on the family car.

Before returning to Valencia PTA as president, Vandersall discussed the decision with her children. She said she looked forward to the opportunity to "get back to where the action is, where the little bodies are."

In her spare time, Vandersall does needlework and enjoys reading. "This is the first year I haven't played adult soccer," she said. The league was started to give parents an idea of what their children were against during AYSO play.

"It's not as easy as it looks, so if mom and dad get are out there playing (they may be more understanding). The adults loved it," she said.

According to Vandersall, PTA's role has changed. "You need to be a huge organization to have an impact .... (PTA) is more recognized as a service that can help." She said PTA officials testify before the Legislature and has supported bills. "It (PTA) is more recognized on the state and national level as an organization that can instigate change."

Also recognized by Valencia School with a PTA Honorary Service

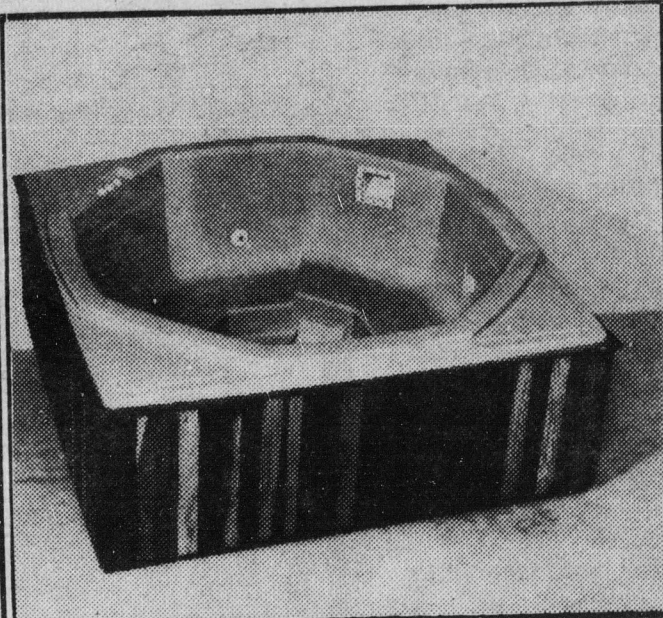

Award for service "above and beyond" was Donna Kolodziej, a seven-year Upland resident.

Kolodziej was presented the Honorary Service Award for her work as a classroom volunteer and for making teaching aids for the Instructional Materials Center for three years. Kolodziej is pack coordinator for Cub Scouts and has served as assistant leader for three different dens. Part of her award included a quilt depicting 12 of Kolodziej's volunteer activities at school. □

CLUB FOCUS

Horizons expand for Sierra Club

By Terri Tirella

Local Sierra Club members are combining the pleasure of outdoor activities with the business of preserving the land they enjoy.

The Los Serranos group was organized to help members pursue hiking, skiing, backpacking and other outdoor activities. But for the last several years, it has focused on land conservation as well.

As part of that effort, the preservation of Rancho Cucamonga foothills was discussed at a recent meeting. Rick Gomez, Rancho Cucamonga city planner, and Otto Kroutil, associate planner, described the West Valley Foothill Community Plan and the city's planning department's role in its development.

The foothills are in the city of Rancho Cucamonga's sphere of influence but are under county control, Gomez said.

"(City) planners are in between the private developer and the public," he said.

Gomez and Kroutil gave Los Serranos members a step-by-step guideline of the Environmental Impact Report process and explained how public input is used to determine a project's approval or denial.

Gomez said simply objecting to a project did not make a significant impact. He advised protesters to consider an EIR as a useful tool, a "purely objective (document) with a full disclosure of information," and to use the information to make reasonable objections.

George Shipway, a past local chairman and current candidate for national office in the Sierra Club, said the organization works on an "upside down" power structure. "The local groups tell the national (officials) what to do ... it's much more grassroots than anything else." Each chapter send a representative to the national level.

The local group was successful in its endeavor to keep the county from building a law and justice facility on the Guasti Regional Park site in Rancho Cucamonga.

"We wrote letters stating that was not an appropriate use of park land," Letty French said. County officials set up a public hearing and later agreed the law and justice building was not an appropriate use for the Guasti site.

"We tried to get the city to maintain a regional park at 17th Street which is on the master plan (for the city of Upland) but they voted in a residential development ... we couldn't convince them to not put houses in flood (channel) land," she said.

She said Sierra Club members try to be members of advisory groups and work with coalitions to try to help with conservation and preservation efforts.

Currently, the group is trying to gather support for the California Wilderness Bill before the Senate, by urging people to write to Senator Pete Wilson to vote for the bill as it stands. The legislation will affect Sheep Mountain, the westerly part of Mt. Baldy, the ridge west of of Baldy Village and some additional areas of Rancho Cucamonga.

New members quickly become conservationists, Kathy Kelley, local treasurer, said. "They like what they see and want to keep it like it is."

Dog owner faces nagging flea problem

R.G. Elmore, D.V.M.
Copley News Service

Q. Every summer our dog has a lot of problems with fleas.

We have tried the collars made to prevent fleas. They do not seem to be effective on our dog. In fact, our dog seems to be allergic to them.

What can we do to protect our dog from fleas this year?

A. Control of fleas can be very difficult. Both the animal and its environment must be treated.

Many of the shampoos, dips, powders, sprays, etc. will remove fleas from the dog's body, but other fleas will return unless they too are killed in the bedding and other places the dog frequents.

Adult fleas can live for weeks to months and are able to survive for long periods without food.

For individual animals, weekly medicated shampoos or dips may be required. Dips are insecticides which are applied to the dog's coat as a liquid and then allowed to dry. If you use a dip, be sure the dip is recommended for dogs and use it exactly according to directions. If a dip is administered following a bath, it is best not to use a flea shampoo. You do not want to mix insecticides.

No one should play with the dog while he is still drying following dipping. If you have small children, you may not want to use dips because of the residual insecticide left in the dog's hair coat.

Weekly baths with flea shampoos are an alternative. However, baths are not as effective in controlling the fleas.

Flea sprays and powders may be used instead of dips or baths.

Because fleas become resistant to insecticides, the most effective ones may change with time. Always follow package directions exactly when using these products.

Although your dog is apparently allergic to flea collars or medallions, many dogs can wear them without problems. They are usually effective in mild cases or as a preventative measure. Animals wearing such devices should be examined periodically for skin reactions near the neck.

In addition to treating the individual dog, environmental control involving discarding or treating bedding, vigorous vacuuming, spraying, fogging, or the use of professional exterminators may be required. The source of the fleas should be removed from the environment. Preventative measures for all dogs and cats within the family should be taken.

Your veterinarian can give you advice regarding which control methods you should use.

Questions should be mailed to R.G. Elmore, D.V.M., Points on Pets, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper. Volume of mail prohibits individual responses. Only questions of general interest will be answered in this column.

New book explores Indian relations

NORMAN, Okla. — An analysis of Indian-white relations in California, based on research into thousands of images of individual Indians, is offered in a new book published by the University of Oklahoma Press.

James J. Rawls' "Indians of California: The Changing Image" examines white images of the California tribes from the earliest Spanish contacts to the present. It gives a new interpretation of federal and state Indian policies, which in California reflect Hispanic traditions as well as more familiar Anglo-American attitudes.

When Anglos settled in California and assumed the lifestyle of the Mexican rancheros, they viewed the Indians as a primitive laboring class, docile and exploitable, the author writes. After 1849, the gold rush brought thousands of new white immigrants, who treated the primitive "diggers" as threats to their own prosperity and security.

Rawls, an instructor of history at Diablo Valley College in Pleasant Hill, traces the evolution of white attitudes toward the Indians. Needing to discredit Hispanic claims to the land, American observers saw the Indians as victims; needing a cheap labor force themselves, they viewed the Indians as a useful class.

Needing unimpeded access to the resources of the state, they treated the Indians as obstacles to be eliminated, the writer notes.

Neighbors can't halt school plans

By Tony Saavedra

Long-term plans for a private school at an Upland church were approved recently despite complaints from nearby residents that the project would increase noise and traffic hazards.

Following a 90-minute public hearing, the planning commission voted 4-1 Thursday to expand an existing permit allowing St. Mark's Episcopal Church, 330 16th St., to operate a school.

Commissioner Roger Remlinger offered the dissenting vote, while commissioners Rosalie Kamensky and William Daily were absent.

The original conditional use permit, granted 22 years ago, allowed the church to operate "a school." No specifics were given.

Church officials recently requested approval of a master plan, outlining facilities for pre-school through eighth grade students.

The plan calls for the addition of administrative offices, a library, a tower and some classrooms to the existing parish hall and sanctuary, enlarging church facilities from 13,600 to 31,000 square feet.

Officials also asked permission to route parking lot traffic through a cul-de-sac behind the church at Third Avenue.

Residents from Third as well as nearby Mia

Court ardently argued that the noise from children playing at the church and from cars driving in the parking lot is unbearable already.

Third Avenue homeowners complained they did not want cars driving through the cul-de-sac to-and-from the church.

Although commissioners unanimously agreed with a city staff report that the cul-de-sac should remain closed, residents were still deadset against the church expansion.

Church officials assured the homeowners that the project would not be developed overnight and only one grade a year would be added.

Hearing Test Set For Ontario

(Ontario)-Free electronic hearing tests will be given at the Beltone Hearing Aid Center Office at 608 N. Euclid, Ontario on Monday & Tuesday from 9:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Anyone who has trouble hearing is welcome to have the test. Many people with hearing problems don't need hearing aids. But only a modern hearing test like the one now being offered by Beltone can really tell for sure. Licensed Hearing aid Dispensers will conduct the tests.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test to see if modern methods of hearing amplification can help them hear better. Hearing aids will be available for purchase.

The free hearing tests will be given Monday and Tuesday from 9:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., 608 N. Euclid Ontario. To avoid waiting call 984-2248 for an appointment. If you can't get there on Monday or Tuesday call to arrange for an appointment at another time. In-home testing is also available.

At Your finger

"Okay, now give me your other hand," said the parent volunteer to a little boy whose blackened fingertips had just been pressed onto a card.

Looking disconcerted, the tot pulled his other hand over the ink pad and let the woman press it down on the card.

"That's a good boy," she said. "Wasn't that fun?"

The child glanced toward his mother as if checking to see whether he had made it through the exercise, responding to her smiling face with a large grin of his own.

Though it all seemed like fun and games at the two-day Deer Canyon Elementary School fingerprinting program, the motive behind the project was serious — deadly serious.

Law enforcement figures reveal that 2,000 of the 10,000 missing children nationwide each year are found dead without identification. Also, some children who die during natural disasters, such as earthquakes, are never identified.

But having a set of their child's fingerprints gives parents a means of identifying him should such a situation ever arise.

"I don't think anyone here thinks it's morbid," said Pat Morrison, the Deer Canyon PTA vice president who organized this year's program. "It's not only good public relations, but it's good for the community ... a real morale booster."

Morrison said crime prevention deputies from the Rancho Cucamonga Sheriff's Substation who helped organize the program claim the first 24 hours after a child is reported missing are the most important as far as identification goes. By giving law enforcement agencies a little more to go on than a child's description, the chances of finding a missing person are enhanced considerably, Morrison said.

And if a dead child is found, it is better to know right away who it is than to agonize while officials make a determination, law enforcement officials say.

"Most of the parents I've talked to say they would get a little satisfaction out of having something to go on, rather than having to wait it out," Morrison said.

"A lot of parents feel a lot better having identification other than hair color and eye color and stuff like that," she added.

It also helps to have a very young child's fingerprints if he is found alive, but is unable to give his name or address, officials say.

Children only a few months old were fingerprinted at Deer Canyon, but they will have to do it again at age 3 because the prints change, Morrison said.

Fingerprinting children has been the subject of controversy in some parts of the city because parents fear officials will use the identification for other means, such as tracking down children suspected of committing a crime.

To combat that prospect, none of the print cards taken at Deer Canyon went anywhere but to the parents. Other programs have prints sent to Sacramento for storage.

"There's no reason for them (the prints) to go anyplace else," Morrison said. "... Most parents feel it is worth a try."

Forty children were brought in by their parents to have their prints taken within the first 20 minutes of the program. Children had to have permission slips signed by their parents to participate.

The program relied on notes sent home with children and posters in supermarket windows to get the word out. More than 220 children were fingerprinted during the two-day program.

Morrison said the PTA will respond to the influx of new children into the city every year by holding annual fingerprinting days. Though other schools in the city hold their own fingerprinting sessions, Morrison said any child in the city will be able to take part in the program.

"I'd like to stress this is for the whole community," she said.

Volunteers from the PTA placed the child's prints on the cards, which were donated by Alta Loma's Straw Hat Pizza Parlor.

"Most of us will be here next year, too," said one volunteer. □

Local Sierra Club widens horizons

Los Serranos group meet the third Thursday of the month, with the singles gathering together after the regular meeting.

Cal French is chairman of the Los Serranos group, part of the San Geronimo Chapter of the Sierra Club and has more than 500 members representing all age groups from teens to people in their 70s.

Other officers are Kelley; Mary Lou Waldrop, vice chairman; Walter Hartman, outgoing chairman; Marjorie Shipway, membership chairman.

Local members are kept up on who is going where in monthly group newsletters and a chapter newspaper, "Palm and Pine."

Sierra Club offers a way to meet people and to learn the best hiking areas, say local members. The club also offers courses in mountain medicine, backpacking and cross-country skiing.

Los Serranos has a large singles group which plans activities and Sierra Club singles can also attend chapter single club outings.

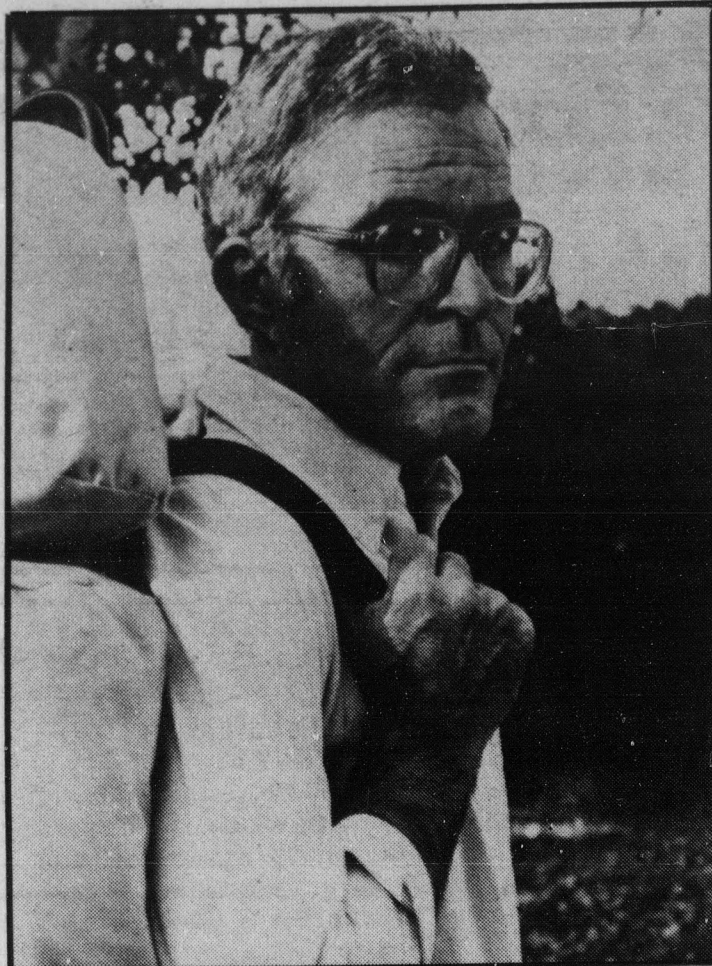

"It's nice to get out and do something besides (going to) bars. You find a nice group you have more in common, more to talk about and our singles group (Los Serranos) does invite married people to group outings too," Kelley said.

Los Serranos is also sponsoring a bus trip to Zion National Park over the Memorial Day weekend. The trip is open to non-members.

The trip will begin at 8:30 a.m. May 25 and end May 28. Carpools will be arranged for those who wish to leave on Friday evening.

The trip will include an overnight backpack for those interested in exploring the back country of Zion. Also long and short day hikes are planned, depending on participants' preference. There also will be other group activities and ranger-conducted tours.

Total cost including transportation and central commissary Saturday, Sunday and breakfast on Monday is $65. Children must be 10 years old or older. For reservations, call Joe Whyte at 981-3906 or Walt Hartman at 987-8830. □

Upland resident Cal French is chairman of the local group of the Sierra Club, Los Serranos. French teaches English at Upland High School.

San Dimas to honor artist Wilson Hurley

Wilson Hurley, an artist known for his broad landscapes of the western United States, has been selected 1984 "Artist of the West" for the American Indian and Cowboy Artists' Festival in San Dimas April 27-29.

Hurley will be honored with President Ronald Reagan, who was recently named 1984 "Man of the West" by the group. Recognition of the two men will highlight the San Dimas exhibition and sale sponsored by the Festival of Western Arts.

Hurley was chosen because his artwork makes a "significant statement" about the American West, said Tom Nuss, chairman of the festival board.

The artist has been particularly acclaimed for the way he depicts clouds and southwestern light. He attributes his interest in broad vistas, mountains, canyons and clouds to his flying experience.

Hurley was a pilot in the U.S. Air Force. He flew in an air-sea rescue unit in the Philippines until he resigned in 1949 to enter George Washington Law School in Washington, D.C.

He practiced law for about 13 years before dedicating himself full time to art. His interest

Soccer trio in Cup semifinals

Three West Valley soccer teams will be in action Saturday in the semifinals of the California Youth Soccer Association (CYSA) State Cup competition.

Competing will be the Rainbow Express (girls under 12), Upland Astros (boys under 10) and the Upland Celtic (boys under 11). A fourth area team, the Upland/Alta Loma Surf was eliminated last week in the quarterfinals.

In addition to the trio, the Alta Loma Aztecs will sponsor the April Fools Invitational Tournament this weekend at Alta Loma High School.

Perhaps the busiest of the playoffs team will be Upland's Rainbow Express. On Saturday, the Express faces the Fountain Valley Wolfpack in State Cup play and on the following day, tackle the Anaheim Shooting Stars in the Pacific Coast League Cup finals at Chapman College.

The Astros will face the San Diegueto Surf at 2:30 p.m. at Riverside City College, while the Celtic will have to journey to Ocean View High School in Huntington Beach for its contest against the Mission Viejo Cosmos.

Coach Diana O'Brien's Rainbow Express gained the semifinals with a 3-1 decision over the Camarillo Rowdies after earlier defeating the Conejo Bandits 4-2.

The Express is 26-3-1 since the beginning of its season last August.

Among those credited for outstanding offensive play are Annette Devolld, Angie Lum, Shelly O'Brien and Stephanie Gilbert, while Julie Ralph, Krista Watson, Julie Castaldi, Michelle Elrod and Kelly Coffman have shared halfback duties.

Others lauded for their efforts include defenders Melinda Mattingly, Teresa Howell, Katie Ralph, Nathakie Townsend and goalie Misty Barrett.

The Astros have scored seven shutouts in their last 10 games, including a 3-0 victory over Newberry Park in the quarterfinals. Aarom Gomez is the goal keeper for coach Bill Hopkins' squad.

During the regular season the Astros were 8-2-2 in the Mountain View League, finishing second to the Santa Anita Stallions.

Scott Kirk scored two goals and Mark Palos added another for the Celtic in a 3-0 quarterfinal victory over the Palos Verdes Raiders, the fourth consecutive whitewashing.

Coach Dieter Dammeier's squad, Mt. View winners with a 11-1 record, are 13-0 in games outside league play, including tournament wins in Las Vegas and Glendora.

Kirk and Jeff Cardenas have each scored three goals in Cup play. In addition to the win over Palos Verdes, the Celtic has also defeated Diamond Bar, Simi Valley and Whittier.

Defending state champion Palos Verdes knocked out the Surf from further competition with a 2-1 decision in double overtime. The Surf ended its season with a 16-2-1 mark.

In league Cup action, the Surf defeated the Aztecs by a 3-2 count in a shootout.

Paul Miller coached the Surf and was assisted by John Gallagher. Alta Loma players included Johnny Andrews, Casey Beets, Darin Felberg, Ryan Ono and Ryan Thomas. Sean Gallagher, David Glatfelter, Preston Kaenel, Todd Kievit, Brian MacDonald, Chris Marten, Scot Martin and Todd Miller were the Upland players.

The Surf will be among the 40 select teams invited to play in the Aztecs' invitational tournament, sponsored in part by Molten Sports Balls.

Aztecs president Ron Jepsen said there will be seven different age groups for boys, and one for girls. All games will be played at either Alta Loma High School or Alta Loma Park (Beryl Ave. above 19th Street).

Additional information is available by calling 989-1320.

Kostoff seeks encore to record performance

The U.S. Swimming indoor national championships underway at the Indiana University Natatorium in Indianapolis will be a dress rehearsal for the U.S. Olympic Trials for the top contenders.

The indoor championships here produced 14 meet and seven American records a year ago. The big difference this time is that instead of being held over the short course (25 yards), the competition will be in the 50-meter pool because this is an Olympic year.

It's the third major swimming meet to be held at the site this season and will be conducted under the watchful eyes of Alabama's Don Gambrell, head coach of the U.S. swimming contingent for the Los Angeles Olympics.

At least four world record-holders will be among the 900 or so swimmers, many of whom will be here to prepare for the all-important Olympic eliminations in late June.

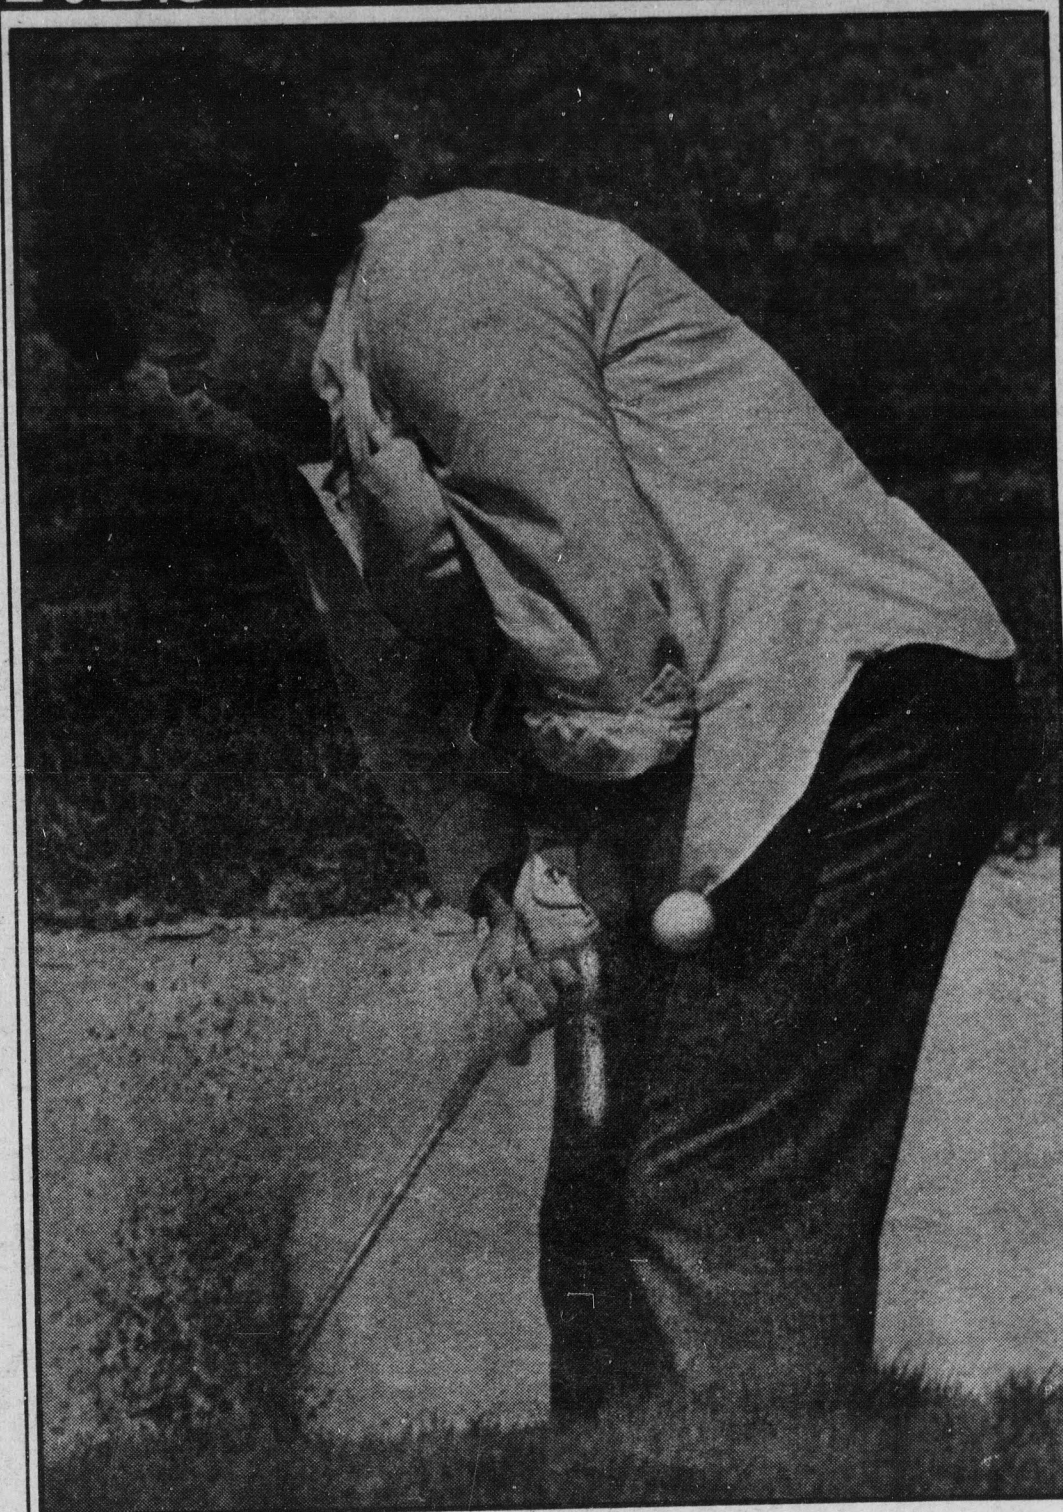

Upland's Jeff Kostoff is among the men to keep an eye on.

Competing for Stanford, Kostoff turned in the most electrifying performance in Saturday's final NCAA Swimming and Diving Championships, taking nearly eight seconds off the American record he set last year in the 1,650-yard freestyle.

Kostoff said he was spurred to his record time of 14 minutes, 38.22 seconds because of the challenge of George DiCarlo of Arizona, who finished second in 14:38.73.

The Upland swimmers easily broke his old mark of 14:46.11 set last year. "The time's fast, no question about it," Kostoff said, noting that the challenge of DiCarlo, whose time also surpassed the previous record by several seconds, helped pace him to victory.

"I just wanted to stay with George for the first 1,150 yards," Kostoff said.

Serious fun at UHCC

Each Thursday, a group of 100-plus women take over Upland Hills Country Club. Beginning at 8 a.m., members of the UHCC Women's Association compete in their weekly tournament.

The format varies from week-to-week and the tournament names are as colorful, with such examples as Field Shot, If and Blind Nine.

"These women are an important part of our operation," said Steve Brown, Upland Hills director of golf. "We have a super group working out here. We've a close knit group, working with the golf shop and striving toward making it a family operation."

Pins are awarded monthly to those among the 180 members who break 100, 90 and 80. Gerrie Shipley busted the 80 mark last month, while Martha Cummings, Ruth Ericson, Shirley Fresh and Ellen Spencer each broke 90.

Kennedy back as Ascot victor

An Upland sprint car driver is off an impressive victory Saturday at Ascot Park in Gardena and a pair of drag racers from the West Valley are among the top 10 in divisional standings.

In addition, a fourth local driver is among the top 15 on the NASCAR circuit.

Following an absence of almost four years, Walt Kennedy is back in the winner's circle at Ascot. Starting from the sixth row, the Upland driver stunned the field with his win in the sprint car feature. He collected $1,770 for his efforts.

It was the first victory for Kennedy, driving under the Ninth Street Auto Body, at the Gardena oval since July 29, 1979. He took the lead for good on the 21st lap, passing three-time champion Dean Thompson on the inside.

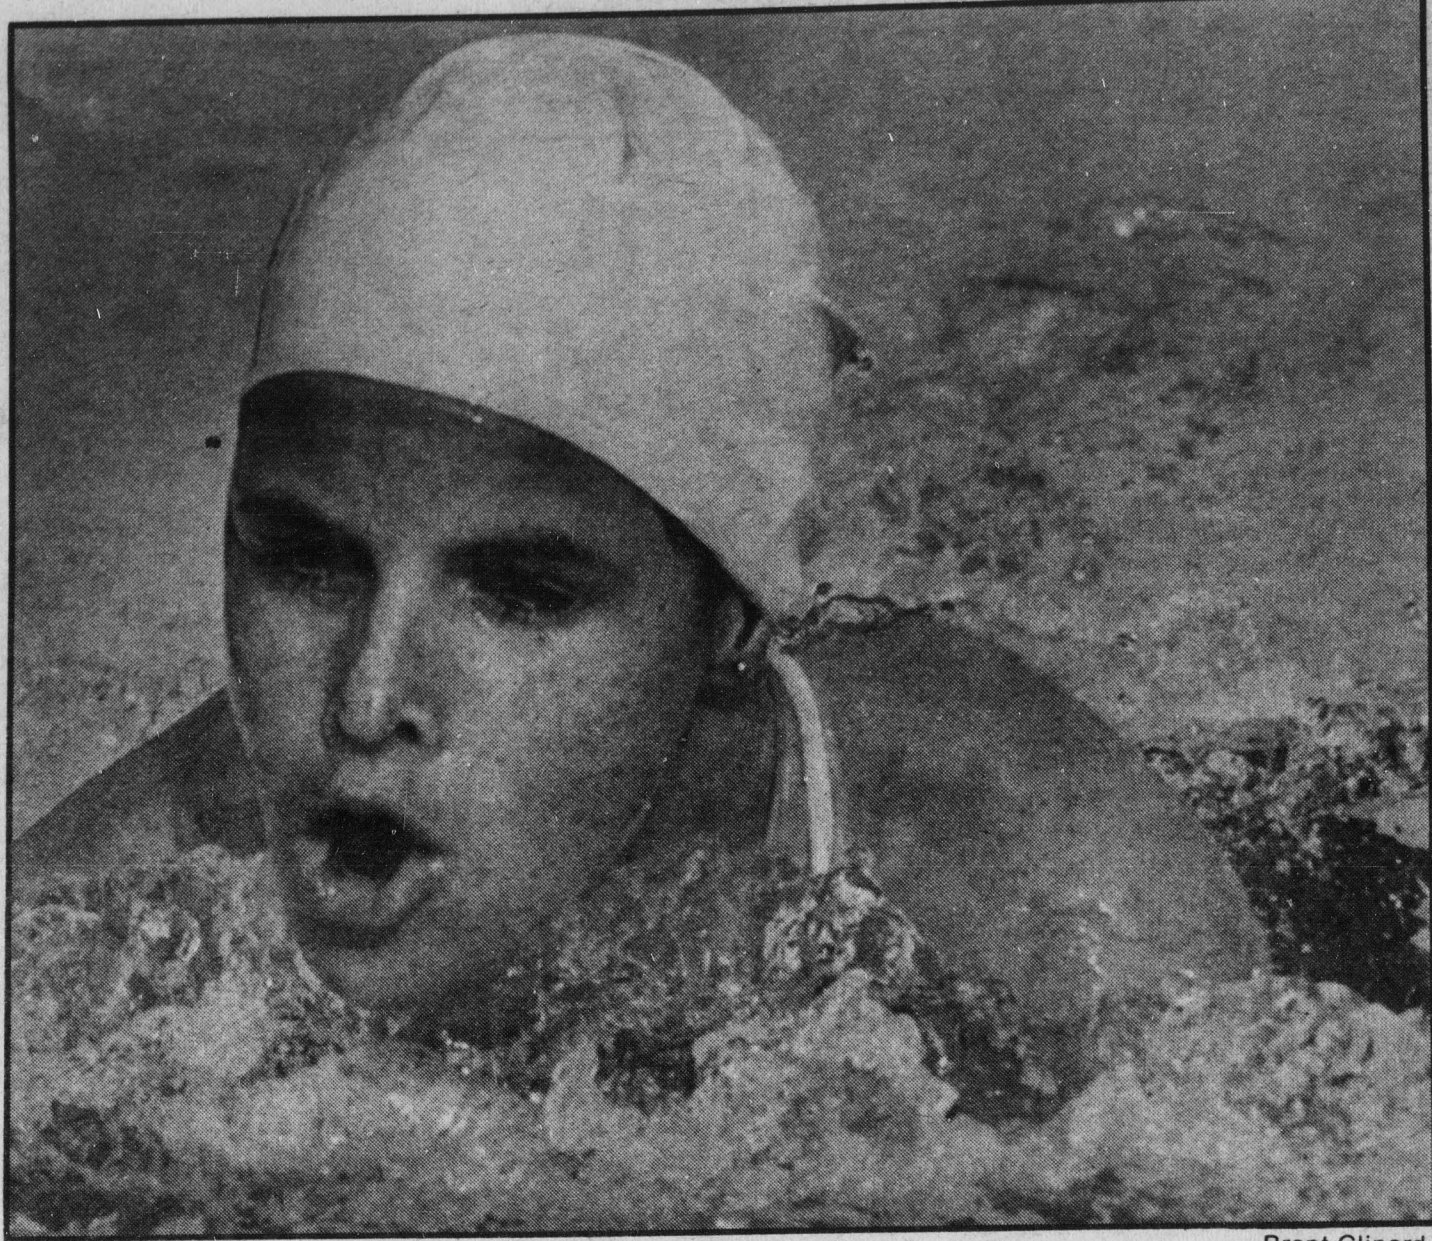

No one challenged Kennedy over the last nine laps.

Driving a chassis built by John Rich, Kennedy will be back on the track this weekend for the $30,000 Spring Car Spring Nationals, with $5,000 going to Saturday's winner.

Rancho Cucamonga's Jim Grossi is third in the Pacific Division super stock standings in National Hot Rod Association competition. Grossi's 600 point total is 200 behind leader Bill Hoefer.

Frank Grossi is in a four-way tie for fifth in the same division with 500 points.

In NASCAR competition, Upland's Joe Ruttman is 15th in the points race heading into Sunday's Valleydale 500 at Bristol (Tenn.) International Raceway.
